

Wireless Forms

Take paper forms to the next level

Paper forms can quickly become a major expense for any business. Converting your forms into electronic versions using our wireless forms feature can drastically reduce those costs by eliminating your burdensome paper trail. Wireless forms make business operations simple and manageable, negating the issues caused by illegible handwriting, lost forms, or incorrect information.

With a wide range of customization, users can create forms for just about any situation. Forms can be filled out on mobile or tablet devices. Users can craft the forms to make use of mobile device features, such as the camera. Wireless forms also possess the ability to convert data into graphs for easy analysis.

Key Features

- A robust form builder tailors forms to a specific task, reducing the capture of irrelevant information
- Invoicing mobile workers is as simple as tapping a mobile device
- Decision logic provides choices based on previous information given

Wireless forms benefit users by streamlining business processes. With the threat of losing forms removed, reliability and customer approval can potentially increase. They speed up work processes and make information readily available regardless of physical location.
